

CorFlute

Corflute or Flute board as it is also known by, is a ribbed polypropylene extruded hollow profile sheet that consists of two faces connected by vertical ribs.

Comes in a variety of thickness sizes and colours.

Corflute is widely used in the sign industry for short term indoor or outdoor signs. Corflute can be printed directly to the substrate on a large format digital flatbed printer, or screen printed.

It can also be vinyl lettered and when the correct primer is used it can also be painted.

Corflute can be eyeleted for signs where tying or wiring to fences is required, there is also a picture frame style hook that can be used when hanging on walls internally and fixings do not wish to be seen.
